2 Initiating the Rite (Dale)

{Horn blower}: After all have circled the area blow horn 3 times

- *{Speaker}: Speaks after horn call

Once again we have gathered together as one people, to honor our Kindred and celebrate the changing of the seasons.

Around us the spirits of nature move, amongst us our ancestors gather and before us our gods stand tall.

At this time, in this place, we set aside all that we brought with us. We focus our thoughts and our actions on this moment while we commune with the Kindred.

3 Meditation (Dale)

4 Outdwellers (Jason)

{Offering}: Ale

{Speaker}: Moves just outside the perimeter

Fomorians! You who come from the outer dark,
You who stood against the gods and man,
You who are cold of heart and cruel of mind,
Take this and trouble not my work.

{Speaker}: Leaves ale outside of ritual space

5 Purification (Rick)

{Speaker}: Walks around the circle playing the singing bowl, while speaking

Let the sound go through your body, your bones, and your being. Let it bring you in tune with your surroundings. As the water falls on you may it bring peace and purity of purpose. We have made sacred this space that we may worship and honor the Kindred as one.

{Assistant}: Walking behind the speaker, asperge the attendees with a tree branch dipped in the well

6 Honoring the Earth Mother (Ronald)

{Offering}: Pinhead Oats

{Speaker}: Distribute grain to participants

Great Danu Mother of all our life is nourished from your bounty. You give the food that nourishes us, the wealth that enriches us, even the very ground we walk on O bright goddess.

All joy and prosperity comes from you, and it is you who sustains us. We honor you now. We thank you for the bounty you bestow upon all of us.

Great Danu accept these offerings.

{All}: Place grain in the fire

7 Statement of Purpose (Dale)

{Speaker}:

Today we celebrate the Celtic fire festival of Beltane. Fire was sacred to the Celts, and part of their celebrations. The druids would build two sacred bonfires for use in their Beltane activities. The bonfires were part of two traditions, the first was that all the hearth fires would be doused, and the flame from the sacred fire would be sent out around the countryside to relight each home's hearth fire.

The second use of the fires was to cleanse the tribes livestock of disease. The pastoral Celts divided the year into two halves, summer and winter. As Samhain was the start of winter, Beltane is the end of it, and the beginning of summer. Through the winter, they would have shared their houses with their livestock, and after a long winter would welcome summer. On Beltane, the herders would drive their animals between the two sacred fires, in hope that any diseases from the long, close, contact would be cleansed by the fire and heat.

8 Recreating the Cosmos (Ronald)

{Purification - Fire}: Incense

{Purification - Water}: Silver

{Purification - Tree}: Incense & Water

{Speaker}: Moves to the fire

To the flame, with this incense let you be purified and transcend the limits of this world. You are now The Sacred Fire; our connection to the heavens and the gods.

{Speaker}: The offering is placed in the fire. Moves to the well

Cauldron of water, With this silver, let you be purified and transcend the limits of this world. You are now The Sacred Well; our connection to the underworld and our ancestors.

{Speaker}: Silver is placed in the well. Moves to the tree

Mighty tree, with this fire from The Sacred Fire, and water from The Sacred Well, you become The World Tree; that which connects and binds the three worlds together.

Like the tree is rooted in the land, so too do we stand firmly upon it.
Like the tree is encircled by the seas, so too are we encircled by them.
Like the tree dwells beneath the sky, so too do we live beneath it.

Once again we remember our place in the three realms, and await the coming forth of the kindred

What defines summer? It's warm weather, sunshine, and thunder storms. Around the world, there are upwards of 2,000 thunderstorms occurring at any particular moment. In the US there are about 100,000 thunderstorms each year. Thunderstorms have been, and remain a potent force of nature; a source of awe and fear. Today, in remembrance of the storms that scour and nurture our world, we honor the Celtic god of thunder, Taranis.

Fáilte Taranis, great lord of thunder, of lightning we welcome you to our fire. Taranis, mighty sky god, accept our offering and join our worship.

{Speaker}: Places offering in the fire

You bring into our world the thunder with its deafening sound, and the lightning with its blinding light. You bring the deluge that cleanses the earth, and washes the corruption of winter away. You bring the rains and the lightning that fortifies the plants. Your symbol is the wheel, the wheel of the chariot you ride across the skies during the storms.

{Speaker}: Fills the horn then speaks.

By the sinsearach, the Sídhe, and the Tuath Dé Dannan; by the storms of Taranis, hallowed are these waters. Let those who drink of them be refreshed, as the world is refreshed following the storm.

Offerings we have given, and an offerings we have been given in return. Behold the Waters of Life!

16 Affirming the Blessings (Rick)

{Speaker, then remaining worshipers}: Raises the horn, speaks then drinks (or pours a small amount on the ground/in the fire) and passes the horn to the next worshiper.
